The Riding for the Disabled Association are joining us again this year as our chosen charity; please pop by their stall to treat yourself! Don't forget that the proceeds from our charity auction go directly to the RDA, so get ready to bid on fantastic items and raise money at the same time.

The 2017 committee are really excited to have you with us. If y'all need anything, just holler!

GENERAL UK PONYCON RULES

UK PonyCon is an event suitable for all ages and we want to provide a fantastic convention for everyone regardless of age, gender or disability. Please be aware of how your actions, even if well meaning, can ruin the enjoyment of the event for other attendees.

Please be respectful during any panel, talk or event and do not deliberately interrupt it unless prompted by the host or in response to a question. Even if you have something useful to add, unwelcome interjections can disrupt the event and impact on the enjoyment for other attendees.

Event rooms and spaces should not be used for socialising when being used for events. The organising committee were aware of the lack of socialising space at 2016's convention and have allocated various social spaces at 2017's event outside of event rooms.

Please be aware of how your actions may impact on other people around you. For example, shouting in public areas can be very intimidating to young children nearby.

Offensive language or imagery is not acceptable at any time.

Attendees aged 13 and under must be accompanied by an attendee aged 18 or over at all times.

UK PonyCon reserves the right to eject any attendee from the event if they are in contradiction of these rules, without refund or compensation. In cases of minor infractions and at the discretion of UK PonyCon, attendees may be given a final verbal warning or the opportunity to leave and return to the event having changed their costume and/or disposed of any prohibited item(s). The UK PonyCon chairperson has final opinion in whether an attendee is in compliance with this policy.

UK PonyCon has further policies covering cosplay, prohibited items, photography and videography, press and media, anti-harassment and stallholders. For full details of these policies, please visit the information desk or view them online at www.ukponycon.co.uk/rules. Please note - new in 2017:

All unrealistic and toy weapons are strictly forbidden.

Well hello there again, PonyCon attendees,

We have been requested by the Strange PonyCon Planning People (aka The Committee) to write a few words for the con book this year. So, here we are. Have some words.

Depending on how many PonyCons you have attended in the past, you may or may not know us. For those of you that don't, hello, we're you're friendly neighbourhood pony ninjas, spreading love, joy, glitter and unicorn farts wherever we go.

For those of you that do know of us, you'll know that the previous statement was entirely erroneous. However, this does mean that you will also know that being a part of the annual PonyCon ninja shenanigans is a whole whirlwind of fun and mystery with the added bonus of a few nefarious surprises. Welcome back you sadistic weirdos. We love you. Now watch out.

We have been hard at work this year making sure that our 7th year of surprises is as well executed and up to our high levels of mischief making and stealth as ponily possible. We've crafted new, even darker uniforms to help us creep about without detection and we've even acquired more Peruvian Instant Darkness Powder as it worked so well for us last year (there's a shop somewhere in London that sells it. Weird place. We all came out of there dazed and confused with some Pygmy Puffs in tow too. What the hell is a Pygmy Puff)

Sadly though, even master assassins, highly skilled in combat and shadowy stealth are not immune to the demon, the pinnacle of all evil that is, Health and Safety. Due to new PonyCon rules, this year the Ninjas will have to adopt a few new tactics and practices to make sure we are safe, both for us and for you, our victims. Um, fans.

In accordance with PonyCon 2017 Health and Safety, the ninjas will now:

Wear high vis when conducting our nightly nefarious gift giving activities to ensure people are aware of our incoming attacks and at least have the advantage of being able to move out of the way before we inevitably win anyway. So good luck.

Steel toe caps. These shall be worn at all times. Not for our protection, but they actually work better for kicking down doors. I mean, they're definitely for our protection PonyCon planning people. 100%.

Gloves. We now, according to H&S need to wear gloves when handling objects for a long period of time such as our gifts. Way ahead of you H&S, we've been wearing gloves for years. Stops the blood getting on our hands.

And last but not least we, the ninjas, pledge that we will not climb a ladder more than 3 steps up without a member of committee present. Pffft, who needs a ladder when you're a ninja. I mean, we always use ladders, and we are safe about it. All the time.

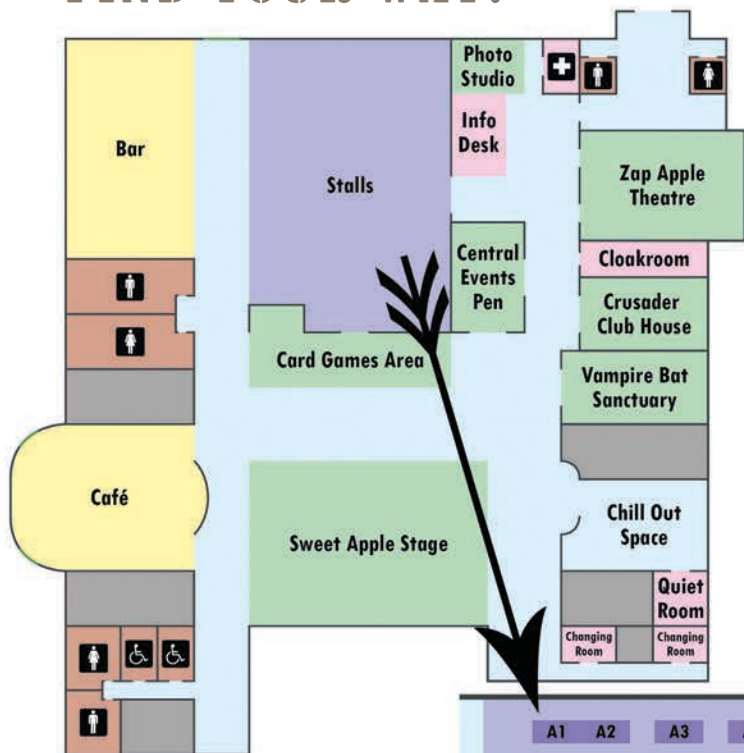

"The Pony Ninjas. Safety is our number 2,000 priority"

Stay Alert,

The Pony Ninjas 2017

CHARITY: WE SUPPORT THE RDA

Riding for the Disabled Association is a national voluntary organisation that looks beyond the barriers of disability, recognises potential and celebrates achievement. It has dedicated the last 40 years to making a real and lasting difference to the lives of adults and children with physical disabilities and learning difficulties. As a charity, RDA benefits from a unique position in the charity world, working across the spectrum of disability, age range, social status and urban and rural environments. Over 18,000 RDA volunteers, at 500 Groups, give 3.5 million hours of their time annually to provide 26,500 adults and children with physical disabilities and learning difficulties with the opportunity to derive direct therapeutic benefit from horse riding and carriage driving: improving quality of life and learning life skills.

The RDA's key objective is to deliver beneficial therapy (both physical and psychosocial) to their riders, carriage drivers and vaulters, facilitating development in key aspects of their lives, including health, well-being and learning, whilst giving them the chance to experience a unique degree of independence and achievement that their disabilities would usually prevent them from experiencing in everyday life. Their aim is to increase the capacity of RDA to deliver more riding, carriage driving and vaulting opportunities to more adults and children. At present the majority of RDA Groups have a waiting list: for every one person who currently rides with them another four are waiting for the opportunity to do so and to experience the associated benefits. To achieve this there they need to invest heavily in volunteer recruitment, development and training.

You can find them at stall H1 in the vendors hall or visit them online www.rda.org.uk
